The situation of our company's corporate governance is described below.

I. Basic Views on Corporate Governance, Capital Structure, Corporate Profile and Other Basic Information

1. Basic Views

Fujikura Ltd. (hereafter, "Fujikura") believes the corporate governance system discussed herein is optimal for achieving the company's growth strategies. Fujikura has adopted a "company with Audit and Supervisory Committee" organizational structure to establish such a corporate governance system.

(1) Enhancing the decision-making capabilities of the Board of Directors

Fujikura believes a structure, whereby the Board of Directors thoroughly and extensively explores important matters, including the annual and Mid-term Business Plans, which are the core of our growth strategies, large-scale M&A deals, etc., needs to be built so that proper decisions can be rendered. To facilitate this approach, Fujikura believes that a system can be realized that allows the Board of Directors to thoroughly and extensively explore and discuss vital matters to arrive at an optimal decision by having in addition to our internal executive directors, who are well-versed in the businesses managed by each In-house Company, a plurality of outside directors who have diverse knowledge and objective opinions, which are not influenced by Fujikura's internal state of affairs.

At present, there are four outside directors: two with corporate management experience (in the finance and manufacturing industries, respectively) and two others (one a lawyer and the other a certified public accountant).

(2) Delegation of authority to directors engaging in the execution of business operations

The main businesses of Fujikura are organized into three In-house Companies (the Power & Telecommunication Systems Company, the Electronics Business Company, and the Automotive Products Company). An executive director is assigned to an In-house Company to handle oversight. Fujikura believes that a flexible system needs to be put in place to facilitate quick and decisive decision-making by said executive directors on items exclusive to the In-house Company and on matters with a relatively minimal degree of risk. To this end, Fujikura delegates a significant amount of authority to the executive directors in charge of management of the In-house Companies.

Also, Fujikura has set up a Nominating Advisory Committee and a Remuneration Advisory Committee, both composed of a majority of outside directors, to nominate individuals to the position of executive director and to decide on remuneration, respectively. Each committee objectively evaluates candidates and remunerations, and Fujikura believes this boosts incentives for executive directors to improve the performance of the In-house Company they are put in charge of.

[Reasons for Non-compliance with the Principles of the Corporate Governance Code]

Fujikura is implementing each of the principles laid out in the Corporate Governance Code.

[Disclosure Based on the Principles of the Corporate Governance Code]

[Principle 1.4] Strategic holding Share

1. Policy on strategic share holdings

Fujikura does not, in principle, hold shares as a policy. However, in the course of its business activities, it is necessary for Fujikura to enter into strategic business partnerships, in which case Fujikura strategically holds shares of its partners exclusively if it contributes to an increase in corporate value over the mid to long-term.

In addition, Fujikura sells off shares that it has decided to stop holding, and the Board of Directors receives reports on the sell-off of these shares. The Board of Directors determines whether the shares that Fujikura holds should continue to be held. In making this decision, the Board of Directors treats the shares as capital invested in each In-house Company, and it considers whether holding the shares would contribute to the above purpose.

2. Policy on exercise of voting rights

Fujikura properly exercises voting rights each year based on comprehensive decisions derived from the aforementioned strategic share holdings policy and from the perspective of an increase in corporate value in the mid to long-term.

[Principle 1.7] Related party transactions

Fujikura conducts surveys on transactions between related party transactions involving its directors and the members of the Audit and Supervisory Committee to ensure that there is no conflict of interest with the company. Based on the results of such survey, Fujikura discloses information concerning related party transactions in the Convocation Notice of the Annual General Meeting of Shareholders and annual securities report.

[Principle 2.6] Measures to ensure that corporate pension funds perform their role as an asset owner

Fujikura has established a corporate pension fund (the Fujikura Corporate Pension Fund) to which it has entrusted the management of Fujikura's pension assets. Fujikura Corporate Pension Fund subcontracts the entire management of the assets to asset management firms and monitors the management of those assets.

Fujikura takes care to provide Fujikura Corporate Pension Fund with the necessary personnel and organizational structures to ensure that the fund can monitor the asset management firms (which manage the assets in practice) effectively.

[Principle 3.1] Enhancement of information disclosure

(i) Corporate goals (corporate philosophy, etc.) and management strategies and plans

Fujikura has established a Fujikura Group corporate philosophy "Mission, Vision, & Core Value (MVCV)", and a Mid-term Business Plan posted as below.

Group corporate philosophy:

<http://www.fujikura.co.jp/eng/corporate/philosophy/index.html>

Mid-term Business Plan:

http://www.fujikura.co.jp/eng/ir/management_policy/management_plan/index.html

(ii) Basic stance and basic policy on corporate governance which reflect the principles of the Corporate Governance Code

See "1. Basic Views" above.

(iii) Policy and procedures followed by the Board of Directors to determine remuneration for management executives and directors

At Fujikura, the Board of Directors decides on remuneration of each individual director based on (1) results of surveys - conducted by several research institutes of primarily publicly listed companies - used as a reference, and (2) a report received from its advisory body, the Remuneration Advisory Committee (the majority of committee members are outside directors and the committee is also chaired by an outside director). The Remuneration Advisory Committee discusses the performance evaluation of each director, whether remuneration standards for each position are in line with the market, as well as the remuneration system. The committee submits a report on individual director remunerations, which takes into account findings for each of the areas discussed. The Board of Directors then issues a decision on director remuneration based on the committee's report.

Specifically, the director remuneration system consists of three components: basic compensation, short-term performance-based compensation, and stock-based compensation. The details of each component of compensation are as follows.

(1) Basic compensation

Compensation for the monitoring and supervision functions of each director, which is a fixed amount according to his/her rank.

(2) Short-term performance-based compensation

Compensation varies within a range from 0% to 200% of a base amount which is set by his/her rank, reflecting certain indicators used to measure corporate performance or the performance of the division under the director's oversight (operating income ratio, return on equity (ROE), and return on invested capital (ROIC) are such indicators).

(3) Stock-based compensation

In addition to the monetary compensation in (1) and (2) above, Fujikura also grants shares of Fujikura Ltd. as compensation. This scheme is intended to enhance the motivation of directors towards contribution to an increase in corporate value of Fujikura by placing directors in a position to enjoy the merit of a rising share price as well as to bear the risk of a falling share price, whereby directors and shareholders share the merit and demerit of such fluctuations.

The above compensation system represents a compensation system for executive directors only, and compensations for non-executive directors, in light of their duties, comprises exclusively a fixed amount as basic compensation, and does not include short-term performance-based compensation or stock-based compensation.

(iv) Policy and procedures followed by the Board of Directors to appoint or remove executive management and nominate candidates for the position of director and auditor

At Fujikura, the Nominating Advisory Committee (the majority of committee members are outside directors and the committee is also chaired by an outside director), an advisory body to the Board, discusses nomination criteria for director candidates. The committee then submits director candidates, based on set criteria, to the Board of Directors. Based on the advice of the committee, the Board then submits a proposal for director candidates to be voted upon at the General Meeting of Shareholders.

(v) Explanations of individual appointments and nominations when appointing or removing executive management and nominating director and auditor candidates in accordance with (iv) above

An explanation of individual director candidate nominations is disclosed in the reference documents of the "Convocation Notice of the Annual General Meeting of Shareholders".

[Supplementary Principle 4.1.1] Matters for resolution by the Board of Directors and the scope of authority delegation from the Board of Directors to the executive directors

As indicated in "1. Basic Views", the Board of Directors delegates a significant amount of authority to the executive directors in charge of management of the In-house Companies to establish a flexible system that facilitates quick and resolute decision-making. Meanwhile, the Board of Directors makes decisions on important matters, including the annual and Mid-term Business Plans, which are the core of our growth strategies, and large-scale M&A deals. To this end, in addition to the internal executive directors, who are well-versed in Fujikura's businesses, Fujikura also appoints several outside directors to take advantage of their diverse knowledge and objective opinions, which are not influenced by Fujikura's internal state of affairs, while also facilitating ample discussions.

Details of the aforementioned allocation of authority on decision-making (the Board of Directors and executive directors) are determined by the Board of Directors to define the rules for responsibilities and authority of directors.

[Supplementary Principle 4.9] Standards and qualifications for determining the independence of independent outside directors

The following are criteria for determining independence of outside directors at Fujikura.

Note that Fujikura has determined that the four (4) outside directors satisfy all of the following requirements to serve as an independent outside director.

Candidates are not deemed independent (do not satisfy independence standards and qualifications) should they, their spouse and children (dependents), and relatives to the second degree either currently meet or in the most recent three-year period have met one of the following criteria.

- a. A major client of the Fujikura Group^{*1} or a person who executes business for a major client of the Fujikura Group^{*2}
- b. A person/company for which the Fujikura Group is a major client or a person/company that executes business for said person/company
- c. A shareholder with 10% or more of total voting rights in Fujikura or a person who executes business for said shareholder
- d. A person receiving substantial contributions^{*3} from Fujikura or one of its subsidiaries, in addition to remuneration as an outside director or a person executing business for said person

*1: Major client refers to a person/company that accounts for 1% or more of Fujikura's consolidated net sales or a person/company that earns 1% or more of their consolidated net sales from Fujikura

*2: Person/company executing business on someone's behalf refers to a director engaging in the execution of business operations or an employee working under said director

*3: Substantial contributions refers to annual amounts in excess of ¥10 million yen

[Supplementary Principle 4.11.1] View on the appropriate knowledge, experience, and ability balance of the Board of Directors as a whole, diversity, and board size

The Board of Directors consists of members that have engaged in practical operations for many years, are well-versed in Fujikura's actual conditions, and have a certain degree of general management knowhow. At times, they are nominated to serve as executive directors depending on Fujikura's business portfolio and key measures. At present there are nine (9) executive directors sitting on the Board. Fujikura has increased board diversity further by appointing an American executive director who was elected at the 170th Annual General Meeting of Shareholders, held on June 28, 2018. Taking into consideration the balance with the number of executive directors on the Board, Fujikura shall engage several outside directors who have diverse knowledge and specialized expertise. At present, there are four (4) outside directors: one (1) is a lawyer, one (1) is a certified public accountant, and two (2) have management experience (directors).

[Supplementary Principle 4.11.2] Policy for cases where directors and auditors also serve as directors at other listed companies

Fujikura confirms that there are no constraints that would prevent those directors or auditors, who concurrently serve as an executive, including director or members of Audit and Supervisory Committee at another listed company, from executing their responsibilities and fulfilling their obligations at Fujikura. Information on key concurrent positions is disclosed annually in the reference materials to the "Convocation Notice of the Annual General Meeting of Shareholders", business reports, and other documents.

[Supplementary Principle 4.11.3] Analysis and evaluation of the effectiveness of the Board of Directors

A survey is conducted on the effectiveness of the Board of Directors and applies to all directors. The survey includes questions on the adequacy of Board meetings overall (time, frequency, management of meeting proceedings, minutes, etc.), adequacy of agenda items (timing, importance, volume of information, etc.), aspects of Board members (participation in discussions, etc.), and executive office function. Fujikura considers the results of the survey and takes remedial measures as necessary. Specifically, in order to further enhance the deliberation of the Board of Directors, aimed at obtaining a deeper understanding from outside directors, Fujikura holds briefing sessions on its products and individual projects for outside directors, and prepares for important matters in advance with briefing sessions.

[Supplementary Principle 4.14.2] Disclosure of training policy for directors and auditors

Fujikura conducts training (both internal and outside training and seminars, etc.) and provides information as necessary to ensure that directors and members of the Audit and Supervisory Committee can fulfill their roles and responsibilities appropriately.

In the case of newly-appointed outside directors, before they take up their posts, Fujikura briefs them on the company's overview, corporate philosophy, business condition, corporate governance, and on rules and other matters related to their posts.

After taking up their posts, newly-appointed outside directors attend briefing sessions and office tours/inspections so that they can get an idea of Fujikura's business activities, industry trends, and the business environment aimed at deepening their understanding of the company.

[Principle 5.1] Policy on constructive dialogue with shareholders

(i) Fujikura promotes initiatives by which the President and senior management can engage in dialogue with shareholders and investors as a means to achieve sustainable growth and increase corporate value over the mid to long-term.

(ii) Fujikura places a director in charge of handling constructive dialogue to ensure the effectiveness of dialogue and information disclosure, under whom the IR Group of the Corporate Strategy Planning Division is set up and that cooperates with related departments to conduct a timely, fair, and adequate disclosure of information.

(iii) Other ways in which Fujikura discloses information include its Periodic Conferences for Analysts and Institutional Investors held four times a year (May, August, November, February), plant tours, and publications such as business reports and annual reports. The President and director in charge of investor relations directly visit institutional investors in Europe, North America, and Asia to provide a rundown of business operations, give briefings on earnings performance, and present an explanation of the Mid-term Business Plan. In addition, extensive dialogue is carried out through pertinent visits with investors allowing opportunities to exchange opinions on matters such as the agenda of the General Meeting of Shareholders, the corporate governance structure, and CSR.

(iv) The President and director in charge of investor relations adequately provide feedback on the results of interviews with the aforementioned shareholders and investors to directors.

(v) For the purpose of preventing the leakage of financial information and ensuring fairness, Fujikura has established a quiet period. During this quiet period, Fujikura does not make any comments about its financial information neither responds to questions about this information. In addition, pursuant to its internal information management rules, Fujikura endeavors to prevent the leakage or proliferation of important information, and to prevent insider trading.

Matters related to Independence of Directors and Employees from Executive Directors

Fujikura established the Audit and Supervisory Committee Office to support the Audit and Supervisory Committee and has positioned dedicated staff to that office. That said, the Audit and Supervisory Committee Office and its staff are independent of directors in charge of executing business operations. The office provides support in line with direct instructions from the Audit and Supervisory Committee.

Cooperation between Audit and Supervisory Committee, Accounting Auditors, and Internal Audit Department

- Cooperation with the accounting auditors

The Audit and Supervisory Committee interviews accounting auditors at the start of each fiscal year regarding auditing plans. Based on this, the committee receives a report from the accounting auditors on the results of interim and fiscal year-end audits. In addition, the Audit and Supervisory Committee appropriately exchanges opinions with the accounting auditors by holding several discussions a year about the details of the accounting audits and the accounting audit system.

- Cooperation with the internal control department

The Audit and Supervisory Committee directly receives monthly reports from the Audit Department, a dedicated body that handles internal audits. The reports contain audit results for each In-house and group company. Based on the audit outcome, the Audit and Supervisory Committee can order additional audits of In-house and group companies or require corrective actions.

To ensure effective auditing and supervision, the Audit and Supervisory Committee has established a Tripartite Audit Council, through which it liaises with two other audit parties: the Accounting Auditor and the Audit Department. Whereas the three parties formerly liaised and discussed on an as-and-when basis, they now do so in regular quarterly meetings of the Council. At these meetings, they discuss about the operational status of the internal control system, update each other on their audit/supervisory work, and exchange views on mitigating the risk of malpractice.

[Incentives]

Incentive Policies for Directors	Introduce a performance-based compensation scheme, other

Supplementary Explanation about Applicable Items

Director remuneration consists of three components: basic compensation, short-term performance-based compensation, and stock-based compensation. The short-term performance-based compensation and stock-based compensation are based on earnings and stock performance. Compensations are paid out to raise the incentive of directors to improve earnings performance.

The short-term performance-based compensation is calculated based on earnings performance versus the targets in the companywide annual plan and specific department plans set by the Board of Directors at the start of the fiscal year. An evaluation is conducted based on certain objective indicators (operating income ratio, return on equity (ROE), and return on invested capital (ROIC)). The short-term performance-based compensation is based on this evaluation. The compensation amount fluctuates within a range from 0% to 200% of the base amount that is set for each rank.

The stock-based compensation is a system whereby directors are granted compensation in the form of common stock in Fujikura. This scheme is intended to enhance the motivation of directors towards contribution to an increase in corporate value of Fujikura, by placing directors in a position to enjoy the merit of a rising share price as well as to bear the risk of a falling share price, whereby directors and shareholders share the merit and demerit of such fluctuations.

Directors other than executive directors only receive a fixed basic compensation which reflects their rank. These directors are not paid a short-term performance-based compensation or a stock-based compensation.

(Accounting audit status)

PricewaterhouseCoopers Aarata LLC has been appointed accounting auditor. The audits are led by Certified public accountants (CPAs) Shinichi Kishi and Hideki Godai, assisted by nine fellow CPAs, six trainee-CPAs, and 10 other members.

3. Reasons for Adoption of Current Corporate Governance System

The main businesses of Fujikura are organized into three In-house Companies (the Power & Telecommunication Systems Company, the Electronics Business Company and the Automotive Products Company) to which an executive director is assigned to handle oversight. Since the products, customers, and competitive environment for each In-house Company vary substantially, Fujikura believes a flexible system is required to facilitate quick and resolute decision-making by executive directors that handle oversight of each In-house Company. Meanwhile, the Board of Directors are responsible for decisions on important matters, including the annual and Mid-term Business Plans, which are the core of our growth strategies, and large-scale M&A deals. Thus, Fujikura believes it is necessary to take into account the diverse knowledge and objective opinions of outside directors to facilitate thorough and extensive discussions for proper decision-making.

In light of the above, Fujikura determined that a company with an Audit and Supervisory Committee structure, which is one of the institutional designs stipulated under the Companies Act, is the optimal corporate structure for Fujikura.

IV. Matters Related to the Internal Control System

1. Basic Views on Internal Control System and Progress of System Development

1. Basic views (Body responsible for the management system and internal control system)

Fujikura is a company with an Audit and Supervisory Committee. There are a total of 14 directors. Nine (9) of the members are directors that do not sit on the Audit and Supervisory Committee. Five (5) of the directors are members of the Audit and Supervisory Committee. Meanwhile, all four (4) outside directors sit on the Audit and Supervisory Committee.

Fujikura organized its main businesses into three In-house Companies. An executive director is assigned to an In-house Company to handle oversight. Directors are also put in charge of organizational management of indirect departments with companywide management functions, including the corporate divisions and R&D divisions. Furthermore, a director from Fujikura is put in charge of subsidiaries deemed significant - given their scale is equivalent to that of an In-house Company -. The President and CEO is in charge of executing corporate management via a system that controls the individual directors accountable for the above responsibilities. The details of this shall be determined by resolutions by the Board of Directors.

Note that these directors, including the President, are “Executive Directors” and do not sit on the Audit and Supervisory Committee. In addition, directors sitting on the Audit and Supervisory Committee are simply referred to as “Audit and Supervisory Committee members”.

The internal control system is a precursor for the above management system. The executive directors are responsible for ensuring the compliance and execution of the internal control system. They must comply and execute internal control systems in the business fields, organizations, and group companies that are under their oversight.

Members of the Audit and Supervisory Committee (or the committee itself) handle oversight of the compliance and execution of internal control systems at Fujikura and its group companies. In light of this, these members (the Committee) conduct surveys of conditions at Fujikura and group companies, and also confirm and verify the details of information provided by officers executing internal controls. Furthermore, executive directors and other parties in charge of executing internal controls shall be required to directly provide explanations when needed. Along with this, given their position as a member of the Board of Directors, which decides on the internal control systems, members of the Audit and Supervisory Committee as well as executive directors are also responsible for the adequacy of the internal control systems.

2. Basic Views on Eliminating Anti-Social Forces

Fujikura defines as a basic policy in the “Fujikura Code of Conduct” that Fujikura takes a resolute attitude against any undue claims and actions by anti-social forces or groups.

Fujikura makes every effort to keep its directors, executive officers and employees informed of this basic policy.

In addition, Fujikura defines the department and personnel responsible for addressing issues related to anti-social forces and facilitates cooperation with external specialized institutions, including consultations with lawyers or other professional advisors and participation in the Federation on Special Organized Crimes within Jurisdiction of the Tokyo Metropolitan Police Department for collecting information.

2. Other Matters Concerning to Corporate Governance System

The following is an overview of recently implemented measures aimed at enhancing corporate governance.

<Summary of Timely Disclosure System>

Fujikura formulated the “Internal Information Management Rules” and “Fujikura Risk Management Rules” as internal rules and regulations, defined the management standards concerning the manner of collection, communication and disclosure of important material information within Fujikura, and organized a structure whereby the Chief Information Officer (General Manager, Corporate Strategy Planning Division) controls disclosure management in an appropriate manner. In particular, material facts that might arise pertaining to Fujikura and any important matters that might require determination by Fujikura shall be initially collected by the Chief Information Officer (General Manager, Corporate Strategy Planning Division) in compliance with the internal rules and regulations. Then, the facts and matters that may have a direct impact on Fujikura’s business performance will be managed by the Finance & Accounting Division, and those other than the above will be handled by the Legal Department, for the purpose of making disclosure in a timely and appropriate manner.
